Christianity is a theistic worldview centered on the person of Jesus Christ that derives its understanding of the world through the teachings of the Holy Bible. [2.2]

27. What does it mean to say that God is personal?

To say that God is personal is to say that God is a person, that is, he possesses the characteristics of a person. Unlike the god-force of New Spirituality, the Christian God is self-aware, creative, volitional, rational, relational, and communicative. [2.3a]

28. Can general revelation lead people to God?

General revelation can “lead people to God” by revealing something about his nature, but there is only so much we can infer about God from observing his creation. Basic knowledge comes through general revelation, but a personal and saving knowledge only comes through his special revelation. [2.6]
